

Eastern and Oriental Express

From the moment you step aboard the gleaming carriages of the Eastern and Oriental Express, every effort is made to guarantee a truly memorable overland adventure.

This opulent train recaptures the elegance and style of the 1920s and 30s as it meanders through sweeping countryside on a two or three-night journey, absorbing the unique and captivating cultures of Thailand, Malaysia and Singapore along the way. Travelling between the great cities of Bangkok and Singapore, the Eastern and Oriental stops for carefully planned and well-organised excursions, such as exploring the River Kwai near Kanchanaburi in Thailand and Georgetown on the island of Penang in Malaysia. Back on board, the changing scenery can be viewed from the open deck of the observation carriage or from the comfort of your compartment whilst enjoying a sumptuous afternoon tea served by your personal steward.

The Eastern & Oriental bar car

The 66 air-conditioned compartments are appointed with beautiful rich wood marquetry and delicate oriental furnishings, and all have compact en suite shower rooms, monogrammed towels and fine linens. The Presidential Suite has the additional advantage of a dressing room and complimentary bar. Dressing up in your finery is all part of the experience and indeed is encouraged, particularly when dining in the refined atmosphere of the two restaurant cars decorated with elm and rosewood panels and oriental motifs. The immaculately laid tables sparkle with crystal and silverware and complement the finest of gourmet dishes, created with subtle Asian and European influences and served by attentive and courteous stewards.

Kate Dicks
Southeast Asia Specialist

The Eastern & Oriental Express in Hua Hin Station, Thailand

FACT FILE

The journey between Bangkok and Singapore on The Eastern and Oriental Express can be included in most itineraries in Southeast Asia. Prices for a two week trip incorporating three nights on the train start from £2,585 per person based on two people travelling. Contact our Southeast Asia specialists on 01869 276 360 for more details.